The struggle to reinstate the 1,047 dismissed railway workers has reached its 30th anniversary, as the longest and greatest labor dispute after WWII. On June 30, 2015 the Supreme Court acknowledged that the JR Companies and the JNR jointly created the list of prospective employees with intention of unfair labor practices. Doro-Chiba demanded JR East Company reinstatement of its members and proposed to begin collective bargaining. It is a new beginning for the fight against this unlawful dismissal and for the reinstatement of the 1,047 workers

On top of the deteriorated revisions already made on the Worker Dispatch Law, the Abe administration is plotting to pass the Zero Overtime Bill and legalizing firing through paying some money this September. It is the largest Labor Law destruction in the post-WWII era. The basic rights of workers on employment, wages, hours and such are being ripped out from its roots; they literally aim to turn the whole workforce into irregularly employed.

This national rally will be held with an aim to unfold railway movement anew and revive class-based labor movements. We appeal for all to participate.
